

PRESIDENT'S ROYAL WELCOME

AT THE NAVY YARD PASSES THROUGH AT 10.40 AT PLAY GROUNDS

Party Received with a Presidential Salute and President's Flag Floats for First Time

The presidential party arrived at the main gate at the navy yard at 10.45, where Captain John C. Leonard, acting commandant met them.

The other officers of the yard, comprising the heads of all departments and marine guard in command of Major Thorpe, were lined up. Just inside the gate the president's party made a stop to greet the yard officials. While they were conversing the national salute of twenty-one guns was fired from the yard battery. For the first time in the history of the navy yard the president's flag was hoisted at mast-head on the administration building.

On the arrival of the party at the quarters of Captain Rogers, yard commandant, the president was met at the gate by former Assistant Secretary of the Navy Frank W. Lockett, Senators Burnham and Gallinger, Congressman Sulloway, Hon. Horace Mitchell of Kittery and the committee from this city. Capt. Leonard and the commandant and Lieut. Wainwright escorted the ladies and President to the house where the ladies of the yard greeted them.

At 11 o'clock the yard whistle sounded and the workmen rushed from the shops. They assembled in front of the administration building to await the arrival of the president, who had gone up to the Peace conference building.

The president and Secretary Knox appeared delighted in their visit to this building, where they were met by Paymaster Arms in charge of the general store. In the conference room the president took a look at the relics from the old Maine and other souvenirs.

"How many rooms did the envoys occupy?" asked the president.

"They had several rooms," answered the paymaster.

Gazing at the coat of arms in the floor, he asked: "Is this where the treaty was signed?"

After the president and Secretary Knox placed their signatures on the register they again took autos for a spin around the naval prison grounds, viewing the sight where the 1700 Spanish prisoners from Cervera's fleet were stockaded during the war of 1898.

On the way back from the prison grounds the party was greeted by the crews of the cruiser Washington, Hamblet, Paducah and Eagle.

The president's auto made a stop at the dry dock and looked over the mammoth structure. Again back at the administration building he met the yard workmen to whom he delivered a short address. He said in part:

"Gentlemen, I am glad to meet you, and I am glad to see here some of the many vessels which I saw in New York at the review. The review was a great use in demonstrating to the people of this country and the world the action of a fleet in time of peace. It showed that both the active ships and those in reserve can be made ready for action when needed in quick time and would be a good program for future administrations. You have several ships for repairs but not as much money for the work as we need. There is need of more battleships and we should continue to build two each year, which I hope the next congress will authorize. We need the vessels to take the place of the inadequate craft."

"I congratulate you on the beautiful and complete navy yard you have here. I did not expect to make a speech here but they told me I must talk to you men for ten minutes. I said: 'Would less time do?' and they agreed that I could cut it down. I wish you all good luck and general prosperity."

Following his address the party left for the Sparhawk mansion, the residence of Hon. Horace Mitchell at Kittery Point. When leaving the yard another salute of twenty-one guns was fired. The party arrived at the mansion about 11.30 where a thousand people besides the school children greeted the party. President Taft gave considerable time to viewing the colonial house and took lots of interest in relics, pictures and furniture. He visited the several chambers and returned to the parlor where he and Secretary Knox placed their signatures with pencil on a white panel on the wall over the fireplace.

A reception was held in the parlor where President Taft shook hands with the people of the town, with several hundred from Elliot and York.

On the grounds facing the house Mr. Mitchell in a witty address introduced the president to the school children. The president returned the wit in his address and while he talked there was a continual laugh from the crowd.

Crowds of People Line Streets and Sidewalks and Cheer President's Party

Dark and lowering clouds greeted President William Howard Taft and party on their visit to the Portsmouth navy yard and this city this Wednesday morning, but it did not dampen the ardor of our citizens, irrespective of political parties, who turned out in goodly numbers to witness the passage of the party through this city to the navy yard.

At 9 o'clock the committee selected to meet the president, consisting of Ernest L. Guptill, Collector of Customs Sherman T. Newton, Postmaster Joseph P. Conner, Dr. E. O. Crossman, Hon. Horace Mitchell, E. P. Stoddard and Dr. John H. Neal, went to the North Hampton line and met the presidential party which was composed of President William H. Taft, Mrs. Taft, Miss Helen Taft, Secretary of State Knox, Maj. T. L. Rhoades, U. S. A., A. D. C. W. W. Mischler, stenographer, secret service men James Sloan, R. L. Jervis, J. E. Murphy.

On the arrival of the presidential party in this city they were met by a committee consisting of Col. Alfred O. Howard, United Senator Henry E. Burnham, Jacob H. Gallinger, Congressman Cyrus A. Sulloway, Franklin Worcester and Fernando W. Hartford, who escorted the party to the navy yard.

It was 10.40 o'clock when the first car containing the escort committee passed over Market square, closely followed by the other cars containing the presidential party.

Notwithstanding the threatening aspect of the weather there was a good sized crowd of people out, who lined both sides of the square and Market street. All along the line the presidential party was greeted with a hearty ovation and he acknowledged the same by lifting his hat.

The passage from this city to the navy yard was without event, all along the line people being out in goodly numbers to get a look at the chief executive.

President Taft and his party were given a most enthusiastic reception at the navy yard, a detailed account of which appears in another column.

The reception accorded the party at Kittery Point at the residence of Hon. Horace Mitchell was also of a cheery nature and here the president met many of the townspeople.

At 11.30 the ladies of the presidential party returned from the navy yard and immediately went to the Rockingham.

A pleasing feature occurred on Market street when Arthur Clapp presented Mrs. Taft with a handsome bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums, the gift of the employees of D. F. Borthwick's store.

The presidential party arrived in this city shortly before noon and at once proceeded to the colonial resi-

Mammoth Crowd Present to Greet President, Who Is Introduced by Solicitor Guptill

The South playgrounds presented a very animated scene this noon, far different from the appearance at the Sunset League games. The bleachers where loyal baseball fans were wont to root for their favorite players were filled with representative citizens who had come to welcome the chief executive of the nation.

One of the bleachers was occupied by the school children and they with their American flags lent an air of patriotism to the surroundings.

In the roadway were stationed the members of the 166th Coast artillery corps and the First Company, C. A. C., who did efficient work in keeping the passageway to the grand stand clear.

Seated on the grand stand were Col. John H. Bartlett, Police Commissioner Morris C. Foye, Rear Admiral Joseph Foster, Ex-Mayor Edward H. Adams, Ex-Alderman Eben H. Blaisdell, William J. Cater, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Yarwood, Mrs. Ernest L. Guptill, Mrs. F. W. Hartford, Mr. and Mrs. William D. Grace, Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Payne, Ex-Mayor John H. Broughton, Elvin Newton, Dr. E. O. Crossman, Dr. W. O. Pullman, William A. Hodgdon, Mr. and

"Well, what is the flag that you have got in your hands?"

"American flag."

"And are you ready to die for that flag?"

"Sure."

"Boys and girls both?"

"Yes."

"Are the girls ready to fight for it?"

"Yes."

"All right then we will have woman suffrage. Now, girls and boys, I have talked to you and you agreed if I talked to you first you would keep quiet; now will you keep quiet?"

"Yes."

"All right."

"Ladies and gentlemen, of Portsmouth, I am not here to make a speech politically or otherwise. I started through Massachusetts, Vermont and New Hampshire more than ten days ago, and I was obliged to cut short a part of that trip that included some of Maine and some of New Hampshire, and I am now completing that trip. One of the advantages of an automobile is that the president now instead of travelling about at the tail end of a junkie, William A. Hodgdon, Mr. and

The approach of the president shortly before 2 o'clock was announced with prolonged cheers and the naval band played "Hail to the Chief."

President Taft was introduced to the vast assemblage by County Solicitor Guptill.

President Taft spoke as follows:

"Boys and Girls, if I speak to you first will you keep quiet? Will you?"

"Yes."

"Will you keep quiet?"

"Yes."

"All right. I am very glad to see you out here this afternoon. I hope you got a vacation on my account. Did you?"

"Yes."

"Well, will you always remember me on that account?"

"Yes."

"That is right. Now, you will remember me also, I hope, because I am president of the United States?"

"Yes."

"And stand for the same thing that that flag stands for?"

"Yes."

"Are you proud that you are Americans?"

"Yes."

about as fast, that is, if you go the speed limit, and see the country and see the people and have the people see him. I find that they have a right to see the man which they have chosen for four years to preside over them, and it is of little importance for him to show himself whether he is much to see or not. But it is one thing to show yourself and it is another thing to make a speech. I have had the pleasure this morning of going over to see the Portsmouth navy yard. I have always known it as the Portsmouth navy yard; but I find that some how or other it is not in New Hampshire; but it is in Maine, and I never could understand until now how it was that the senators from Maine were so much interested in something I believed in New Hampshire. It is a fine navy yard and I hope it may continue.

"About a week ago I attended the review of the navy of the United States in New York harbor. There were thirty-one battleships. The sight was one calculated to inspire patriotic feelings in every American who witnessed it. It enabled us to see that we

Hon. Woodbury-Langdon Mansion.

EXETER LETTER

Exeter the shire town of Rockingham county will probably send to Portsmouth today one of the largest crowds for years to greet a president of the nation, when President William H. Taft will visit that city. All of the Republican organizations will go down almost to a man and many automobiles will convey private parties. Portsmouth is the nearest that a President has come to Exeter for many years, and now that the campaign is fast reaching its climax the interest among the legal republicans here will give vent to a grand turnout today.

The first rally of the campaign is booked for the Town Hall on Thursday evening, October 31, when the speakers will be senator J. H. Gallinger and the Rev. T. H. Chalmers of Manchester, and it will probably draw large crowds. In neighboring towns the interest is also awakening and many are showing their colors for the G O P by displaying of Taft and Sherman photographs in their residences. These are particularly noticeable in the country districts.

The regular session of the probate court held Tuesday was largely attended. Judge Louis G. Hoyt of Kingston presided and there was a large representation of the Rockingham county bar members from out of town among the members being Judge E. H. Adams, Judge Thomas R. Simms and John L. Mitchell of Portsmouth, and W. D. Pulver of Salem.

The regular routine of business was transacted, there being nothing of special interest.

NEW HAMPSHIRE COLLEGE NEWS

The department of agriculture is in the midst of handling its large apple crop at the Woodman orchard. This is an orchard of approximately 300 trees about twenty five years old. Five years ago it was leased from the college by Mrs. J. Woodman for a period of ten years. The purpose of the lease was to give the college an opportunity to study the factors which influence fruit, bud formation and crop production.

When the work was first undertaken the trees were in a uniformly poor and run down condition, so that the first two years were devoted mainly to renovating the entire orchard. In 1910 a crop of 500 barrels were produced and a crop of about 200 barrels in 1911. This season the yield for the orchard will be close on to 700 barrels.

The most notable feature of the orchard is the difference in the appearance of the trees and the yield on the sod plots in comparison with the plots receiving cultivation.

An especially valuable feature of the work is the opportunity it affords students to obtain first class practical experience in handling a large apple crop and in becoming familiar with various orchard practices. This is an opportunity which should be and is appreciated by students in petology since there is a great demand now for men with thorough practical as well as theoretical training. The facilities of this practical experience at New Hampshire college are equal

Yale Men Have Little Reason to Worry About Big Football Games of the Future

New Haven, Oct. 23.—Yale men have no reason to worry over the football outlook. Unless sadly mistaken, a great team is in the making. There are many rough edges to be smoothed off, and more plays are needed for a proper expression of the true power of the attack, but there is plenty of time. The team came out of the army game in remarkably good condition, in spite of the wet field and the wet ball and the constant slipping and falling. Not a Yale man was injured so that he will have to say out of the game at all. The game settled the lineup of the team, with the possible exception of three positions. These are the quarterback and two end positions. Lefty Flynn, Yale's fullback, was the bright star of the game. Rarely is found a man of his weight who can get up speed so quickly and run so fast, with so little apparent effort. Harming accidents he should develop into one of the greatest backs in the history of football. There is lots of latent strength in the Army eleven, and it will be developed in plenty of time for the Navy game. The work of the ends was impressive. Prichard the Army quarterback will be heard from as a field general and football strategist and field general. Upper picture shows Philbin of Yale scoring touchdown in Army game; lower one, Prichard of West Point, on left, about to make forward pass.

to any of those of the larger agricultural colleges.

On the average there has been eighteen men at the orchard very day and the day's pick has averaged 60 barrels. On Thursday the 17th 80 barrels were put up, this being the biggest day's work to date.

Two packing squads have been run each made up about as follows: four pickers, two sorters, one recorder and two packers. Frequent changes have been made so that each man may have a chance to learn all the various operations. The fruit from each tree is first weighed in the picking baskets, then taken to the packing table counted, and graded into fancy, firsts, seconds and culls. Then they are ready for the packers.

There are over two hundred barrels yet to be picked in the orchard but this will all be finished during the next four days. The supervision of the work is under the direction of Mr. Wolff.

The orchard is laid out in series of 11 plots each receiving different treatment as to soil management, cover, crops, and fertilizers. The apples are all of the Baldwin variety and although it is the general experience that Baldwins in cultivated orchards are lacking in color, it is a remarkable fact that the color of the fruit this year from the Woodman orchard from trees grown in plots with crimson clover cover crop, is all that could be desired.

We, the members of the State Teachers' Association of New Hampshire at the fifth annual meeting of the society believe that the educational needs of the public schools of the state demand:

'ape's Diapiesin' Make Your Stomach Feel Fine in Five Minutes

Wonder what upset your stomach which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; is sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into a stubborn lump, your head dizzy, and aches; belch gas and acids, and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Diapiesin and in five minutes you truly will wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a sour stomach. A little Diapiesin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if you your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Diapiesin which costs only 50 cents for a large case at all drug stores. It's truly wonderful. It digests food and sets things straight, so gentle and easily that it is really astonishing. Please, for your sake don't go on and on with a weak, disordered, stomach. ## MR. HACKETT SENDS CONGRATULATIONS

Pleased With the Exercises of the Historical Society.

At the Centennial celebration of the American Antiquarian Society in Worcester, Mass., Hon. Frank W. Hackett of this city, tendered in behalf of the New Hampshire Historical society cordial congratulations to the elder society and expressed the hearty wish that the new century just entered upon may bring to the A. A. Society an even larger measure of usefulness and success than that which has already characterized the society's work.

Mr. Hackett reports that all the exercises were admirably conducted and everybody in attendance as a delegate was delighted with the hospitality of the Worcester people. President Taft at the dinner was received with prolonged cheering and spoke admirably.

CEMENTGREEK TROOPS REPORT
TO HAVE VICTORYTurkish Forces Routed With Heavy Loss in Prisoners.

ATHENS, Greece, Oct. 22.—The Turkish Army is fleeing in panic from Dhisikata on the way to the Turkish town of Servia in the north, according to a semi-official statement issued here today. The Greek troops are said to be pursuing them vigorously.

When the Turks precipitately abandoned the town of Dhisikata, it is said they left behind them their staff maps dropped during their retreat much of their clothing and most of their engineering implements.

The total losses of the Greeks in the first day's engagement are given as one captain, two sublieutenants and 10 men killed and 75 men wounded.

The Greek troops in Epirus have occupied the heights commanding Grimbovo and those of Xirovount. The Turkish artillery constantly fires upon the heights of Grimbovo, but without material effect.

PRAIRIE REPORTED SAFE
AT SANTO DOMINGO

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The naval transport Prairie, which had not been heard from since Oct. 2, and for whose safety fear was felt, arrived at Santo Domingo City last night. She had not reported to Washington before because of cut cables from Santo Domingo. Brig Gen Frank McIntyre, USA; W. T. S. Doyle, chief of the Latin-American division of the State Department, and 750 marines are aboard.

Up to today the Prairie was last heard from Oct. 2 off the coast of Santo Domingo, whether she had been ordered to investigate the uprising there and to interfere if American of forelgn interests were endangered. Acting Sec. Beckman Winthrop early today sent urgent dispatches to all stations in Santo Domingo and Haiti, seeking for information of the vessel's whereabouts.

The commission of inquiry on board the Prairie includes Brig Gen Frank McIntyre, chief of the Insular Bureau of the War Department, and W. T. S. Doyle, head of the Latin-American division of the State Department. A dispatch from Gen McIntyre on Oct. 2 announced that the vessel would proceed along the north coast of the island and would leave Oct. 6.

The long silence created considerable uneasiness in official circles, although it was hoped that the Prairie had merely passed out of touch of the cable stations and would soon report. This proved to be the case. The vessel is commanded by Commander A. H. Seales, and besides the force of marines carries a considerable crew.

STUBBORN RESISTANCE.

BEIGADE, Servia, Oct. 22.—The four Servia Armies are advancing slowly into Turkish territory, but are meeting with stubborn resistance from the Turkish troops, according to official reports from the front.

The first Servian Army, operating in the direction of the fortress of Ustup, has reached the vicinity of Kumanova, only 10 miles away from the place. The Servian troops today captured the outlying positions around the town, and a general attack on the town itself is expected to be made today.

The Servian army approaching Prishtina, along the River Ibar, had a serious engagement yesterday with a strong force of Turkish troops and Arnaout irregulars, who were estimated at 4,000, with 10 companies of Turkish reserves and four batteries of artillery.

The fight occurred in the Herestian pass, in the vicinity of the Servian towns of Roshka and Yenipaza. It took the offensive yesterday morning and captured the entrance to the pass after heavy fighting. The Turkish troops then retired and the Servians passed through on to the plains of Kosovo.

The losses of the Servian troops were considerable, while those of the Turks are believed to have been very heavy.

The Servian Army was unable to advance farther by reason of darkness, but the weather is excellent for military operations.

Another Servian Army, operating in the northern part of Novibazar, has captured all the Turkish blockhouses and advanced positions around the town of Senitaza.

The first convoy of wounded reached Belgrade today. It consisted of about 150 men, the majority of whom were suffering from only slight wounds.

King Peter yesterday crossed the border in a motor car, and was enthusiastically received by the troops.

TO SPEND $3,000,000
FOR DOCK IMPROVEMENTS

BOSTON, Oct. 22.—At the meeting of the Directors of the Port of Boston, held at their offices this morning, all the members or the Board being present except Admiral Bowles, it was unanimously voted, on motion of Mr. Conry, that the sum of $3,000,000 be appropriated for the purpose of building a first-class modern water and railroad terminal at East Boston.

Mr. Conry was much pleased at the action of the Board, and believes that this is the beginning of a work which will place the port of Boston on a plane with Liverpool and Hamburg. The following is a copy of the vote:

A ROLLER TABLE

It Will Save Time and Steps in Doing Housework.

To save yourself steps and time put rollers under your kitchen table. You can then roll the table near the sink when you are washing dishes, into the pantry when you are making bread, and want to be near the flour supply or in front of the china closet when you are giving it the weekly cleansing and want a place for the contents of the shelves while you clean them.

A roller table is surprisingly convenient in the kitchen and all that is necessary is to put rollers on the table you already have. To save the work of scrubbing the top of the table have a piece of zinc tacked smoothly on it, leaving no sharp edges to do mischief. It will save hours of hard work, and hot kettles and cooking utensils leave no marks.

THEY SURELY ARE.

With much prominence the democratic state committee asks the voters of the first congressional district if they are satisfied with their member of congress. The question is easy of answer. Cyrus A. Sulloway has faithfully represented the district in congress for many years. Previous to that service, it had been the practice of the party here not to give a con-

For the purpose of constructing a first-class modern water and railroad terminal at East Boston it is hereby ordered that the sum of $3,000,000 be appropriated by the directors or the property of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Point, East Boston, and for such additional property or any rights therein as may be necessary for railroads or freight yards or rights of way extending from the Commonwealth's property to the location of the Boston & Maine Railroad in East Boston and for the purpose of laying out, constructing and suitably grading such highways, bridges, railroads or other gressman more than one re-election. Previous to that time the district sometimes sent a democrat to represent it. The voters have been asked to substitute a democrat with biennial regularity since 1894 when he was sent to represent them, but they have invariably declined to do so. The evidence could not be stronger that they are satisfied with their member.

The democratic committee asks further if Sulloway represented the voters when he voted against the democratic tariff bills of the last session. There can be no question that they are satisfied that he did. His course in so doing was consistent with his vote to repeal the Wilson tariff, early in his congressional service, and to substitute for it the Dingley tariff. They recall the hard times in New England under the democratic Wilson tariff under which the New Hampshire industries were hit a withering blow, and the restoration to prosperity that came under the Dingley tariff. If the voters of the district had not been satisfied that such legislation represented them and their interests, they would have years ago retired Mr. Sulloway for a democrat who would have joined with the representatives of that party from the South and West who are hostile to New England's interests. With full knowledge of his steadfast course for New England's interests, Mr. Sulloway was again re-elected at the recent primaries without opposition, and hundreds of democrats will join with the republican voters of the district, as they have done before, in voting to continue him in congress to war against legislation that is hostile to the interests of the people of New England. In face of the demand for labor on full time and at good wages, they can see no sound reason for legislative changes.

There is abundant evidence that the voters of the first congressional district are satisfied with their congressman, and that they have abundant reason for being so satisfied.—Manchester Union.

The President's Welcome.

For the seventh time Portsmouth has had the honor of entertaining the president of the United States, and on no previous occasion have our people had more cause for rejoicing over the pleasure of entertaining the chief executive of this nation, and in welcoming a man who has done as much for the prosperity and success of the American people as has William Howard Taft.

Portsmouth feels justified in entertaining the president. It feels more pride because the president in his busy life has found time to do our citizens the honor of visiting and inspecting her great naval station. Today President Taft has dined where Washington dined in Portsmouth, and in the long list of presidents from Washington up to, and including, the present incumbent of the White House, no man has better title and a better claim to follow after the distinguished and time-honored "Father of Our Country," George Washington.

The citizens of Portsmouth feel a keen interest in the future of President Taft. They believe that he is honest, conscientious and is striving for the well-being and happiness of all the people. He is not of the oratorical type of man, but of that type that thinks before he acts, and when he puts into action what he has planned, results are obtained that are desirable and in the interests of the upbuilding of the government rather than the destruction thereof. He had heard much about Portsmouth and her navy yard, and he was glad to see what he had heard so much about, and he found that all the claims that had been presented to him had not been exaggerated and that Portsmouth was a prosperous and satisfied community, hearty and sincere in its welcome.

Portsmouth will long remember the visit of President Taft, and his reception from start to finish was in every way commendable to our citizens, both republicans and democrats and all other types of political views.

Our Splendid Prosperity.

The present splendid prosperity everywhere apparent is due not only to the abundant crops but also to the confidence which the business world has in the administration of public affairs by William Howard Taft. There is, above everything else, a hope that nothing will disturb the progress and success that now wait upon all business enterprises. The memory of the last democratic administration even yet, whenever it is contemplated, hangs like a hideous nightmare upon the minds of all who passed through its bitter experiences. The bank failures, the business bankruptcies, the widespread suffering and disaster; the strikes, the riots, the breadlines and the soup houses, the mutterings and demonstrations of hundreds of thousands of unemployed men; the panics, the Coxey and Kelly armies, all these the result of threatened free trade, form a chapter in American history to which no sane man desires to return. It is for this reason that Mr. Wilson, the democratic candidate, will be turned down and President Taft will be reinstated at the November election.—Manchester Mirror.

A well known clergyman, in a statement in which he deplores gossiping, says, "When you see three women's hats, commingling their roses together, you may be sure that the secrets whispered back and forth about this one and that are not hidden good works." Here is something fresh for the busybodies to talk about.—Boston Globe.

One would not have to consult a clairvoyant to establish the fact that some "dear friend" was being hauled over the coals.

The Cleveland Leader says that objection to the appointment of a woman as playground director in Buffalo is made on the ground that she could not maintain discipline. Why not take a vote of the married men on that question?

It is a safe bet that the election day officials will earn their money on November 5 when they tabulate the ballots. A straight ballot will undoubtedly be a rarity and worthy of preservation for future years.

The person that arises early in the morning to see if his name has found prominence in the local newspaper, is many times doomed to disappointment.

The Baltimore American says one fanatic inspires a dozen more. For this reason every precaution should be taken to safeguard our public men.

CHARGE OF THE BARGAIN BRIGADE.

Half an inch, half an inch,
Half an inch onward,
Into the bargain rush
Shoved the nine hundred.
"Punch up, he'll follow plume."
"Say, can you make more room?"
"We want to get inside."
Cried the nine hundred.

Ten cents the most they paid;
Was there a one dismayed?
No, though they saw and knew
Several had faltered.
Theirs not to stop the quest,
Theirs but to hunt with zest.

Happens to right of them,
Happens to left of them,
Stiff quills in front of them
Jabbed, poked and mangled.
Yelled at by mad police,
Still, do you think they'd cease?
Not though torn piece by piece,
Bruised, maimed and strangled.

Oh, wondrous bargain raid,
Oh, the wild dash they made
For pans and glory—
Pay for the fight they made,
Five and ten cent brigade,
Victors through glory.

—Exchange.

Current Comment.

The President States the Case
Mr. Taft's latest appeal to the voters which appears in print today is pitched in a key to attract attention. That the country is prosperous is beyond question. That a continuation of prosperity is desired by all know. And so Mr. Taft asks, "Why turn out the party under which this prosperity has come and bring in a party whose declared policies, differing from the policies of the party in power may throw the whole business world out of gear?"

A single sentence, happily phrased, saved the day for the Republicans in 1896. Mr. Bryan had taken the wreck of the Democracy made and left by Mr. Cleveland and put it into first class fighting form. Great crowds were hearing him everywhere. Many Republicans were in his train. He looked like a winner and his own faith in success was supreme.

One day in an address from his front porch at Canton, to a visiting delegation, Mr. McKinley said: "Instead of opening the mints let us open the mills."

With those ten words he electrified not only his audience, but the country. He put the case so that everybody, wage earners and capitalists alike grasped it in a moment. The mills were closed. Hosts of capable men anxious for jobs were idle. Capital was earning nothing.

From the day of that deliverance the tide turned. The longer capital and labor pondered Mr. McKinley's words, the wiser the words appeared. Why open the mints and coin fifty cent dollars, instead of opening the mills and employing labor again on a money basis of a dollar worth a hundred cents?

The country voted to open the mills and they were opened, and from that day to this with the exception of the brief period of the Roosevelt panic in 1907, a tide of exceptional business prosperity has been running.

There is no one striking sentence in Mr. Taft's deliverance, but the whole of it is persuasive on the line of Mr. McKinley's epigrammatic adoration. With the mills all open why take chances of their closing? With everybody at work, why take chances of widespread idleness? With the protective tariff frankly proclaimed, well approved by results, why take chances of a revision by a party which condemns protection as unconstitutional, and is now led by a man facing both ways?

Mr. McKinley made his appeal some six weeks before election day, and in time for it to reach all sections of the country and be fully considered. Mr. Taft's comes within a fortnight of the election, and while excitement is high about other issues, that may make a difference. But the Taft proposition upon its merits is a strong one and even if it does not pull him up to a better position in the race than he has hitherto acquired.—Washington Star.

GRANT WAS HERE ONCE

Among the Presidential visitations to Portsmouth might have been mentioned that of President Ulysses S. Grant, which was not a visit, but only a passing-through. This was Aug. 12, 1873, when President Grant and his children were on their way to Augusta, Maine, to be guest of Speaker James Blaine. The Presidential party consisted of the President, Nellie, Ulysses and Jessie (his children) Gen. Babcock, Hon. G. S. Boutwell, Postmaster Burt, Gov. Porham of Maine, and Speaker Blaine. They were on a special train and arrived here about noon. An expectant crowd waited the coming of the party and greeted them with cheers, to which the President bowed an acknowledgment from the platform of the car, being introduced by Ex Gov. Ichabod Goodwin.

IMMIGRANT IS 7 FT. 2 INCHES

Ship Has to Provide a Special Berth for Giant Pole, Twenty-Two Years Old.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Ignatius Ziomas, who arrived here with 614 other immigrants on the Prinz Adalbert of the Hamburg-American line, from Hamburg, came to the United States to grow up with the country. His ambition would seem to be doomed to disappointment, for Ignatius, who is twenty-two years old, has thrived so well in his native land that he stands seven feet two inches above the earth.

Ziomas comes from Poland, and is a farmer. He had to occupy a special berth because of his size, and at table no one could sit opposite him because of the length of his legs.

To the immigration inspectors he said he would go west to purchase a farm, and if he met a suitable young woman he would make her his wife. Ziomas was well supplied with money.

Bad weather is chronic for nearly every day of the voyage in the log of the Adalbert, which arrived one day late. Its 138 cabin passengers, mostly tourists returning home after a sojourn in Europe, remained below decks during a greater part of the passage.

The dark hold of the big liner was a veritable child's toyland, there being nearly three hundred big cases filled with playthings.

Journalist and Wife Are Remarried by Blackfoot Chief in Glacier National Park.

St. Paul, Minn.—Robert Hehl, correspondent of Leslie's Weekly, and his bride a few days, formerly Miss Helen Corbin of Indiana, were married again by Chief Three Bears of the Blackfoot Indians while the couple were honeymooning in Glacier National Park. The strange wedding, which means the adoption by the Blackfoot tribe of the "pale faces," was witnessed by about 100 tourists, including several from the old world. The name bestowed upon Mr. Hehl is "Black Eagle" and his bride was named "Smallwoman."

"He is noted for his constancy. His constancy, though, suggests the Chinese proverb about the constancy of women."

"A woman's heart," says the Chinese proverb, "is like the moon. It changes continually, but it always has a man in it."

AT THE NAVY YARD

At the Mitchell home Frederick Hale, national committeeman from Maine, and William Dean Howells greeted the president who chatted for several minutes with the son of the ex-senator of the Pine Tree state.

Among those who met President Taft at the Sparhawk mansion were Mr. William Dean Howells, Judge James W. Locke of the U. S. District court of Jacksonville, Fla.; Hon. E. C. Burleigh, Augusta, Me.; Col. Frederick Hale of Portland, Me., a member of the National republican committee; Hon. George L. Emery of Biddeford, Me., member of the York County republican committee; Hon. Warren C. Philbrick of Waterville, Me.; Judge Aaron B. Cole of Ellot, Me., state senator-elect; Dr. Henry J. Durgin of Ellot, George A. Wesson of Kittery Point, the author; Hon. Moses A. Safford of Kittery; Calvin L. Hayes of Kittery; Judge Justin H. Shaw of Kittery; Hon. Joseph Simpson and party from York; Hon. T. Frank Staples of Ellot; C. Edward Bartlett of Ellot; William Hobbs of Ellot; Thomas E. Wilson, postmaster, Kittery; Calvin D. Dunbar, Kittery.

On the way back to this city through Kittery several cars of the Atlantic Shore Line Railway loaded with children greeted the president.

Arriving at Portsmouth the ladies, who had gone ahead, were awaiting the president at the home of Hon. Woodbury Langdon. The reception at the Langdon mansion lasted for fifteen minutes and after making a tour of the rooms the party started for the Commandant's Quarters Where Mrs. Taft was Entertained.

Rockingham. On the way up Pleasant street President Taft and Secretary Knox stopped at the Elks' home where the president wanted to know if this was the headquarters of the "Elks." He was much pleased with the history in connection with the home, given him by the exalted ruler, John T. Lambert, during his few minutes' stay. After he and the secretary had placed their signatures on the Elks' register they were hurried to the Rockingham for lunch.

At 2:10 p. m. the party left the playground for Poland Springs via Dover, where the president will make a short address to the people there.

were prepared in accordance with our rights and that there is a nation to assert our rights and defend our country.

NOTES OF THE DAY

One busy day for the President. The ladies of the party were delighted with their visit to the Sparhawk and Langdon mansions.

Nothing escaped the eye of the President while at the naval station. The military end of the affair at the navy yard was perfect.

The President hesitated when asked to mark up the beautiful wall in the Sparhawk mansion at Kittery with his signature, saying, "I don't like to mark up this nice wall."

As soon as the party came to a stop at the navy yard, the first move on the part of the President was to arise in his auto and inquire how the party got along on the trip.

Another big day for the old city by the sea. The playground is certainly the place for public out of door gathering.

Portsmouth Lodge of Elks feel highly honored that the President took time to make a call at the home. Ten thousand people heard the President on the playground.

The introduction of the President at the playground was brief but certainly made a hit.

Order at the playground was perfect, with the local militia and 156th Company Coast Artillery on duty there.

Portsmouth certainly did herself proud in her welcome to President Taft.

A representative of a moving picture house was here today getting views of the scenes attending President Taft's reception.

The South Play Ground never was present to greet President Taft.

The naval band made its first appearance in this city in its full dress uniform, the members looking very smart in their red coats.

There was a general closing of places of business throughout the city during the afternoon hours.

President Taft's visit to Portsmouth on October 23, 1912, adds another bit of fame to the old city by the sea.

TAKES UP PROSECUTOR'S BET

Husband Accepts Wager of 55 That There is an Affinity in Case.

Washington, D. C.—George Hamill, a clerk in a big department store and living in Keenelworth, D. C., who, according to his wife's charge, does not properly clothe her, is being shadowed constantly for the corporation counsel's office in consequence of his wager of $5 with Assistant Corporation Counsel George that there is not another woman in the case.

"Who is the other girl?" asked the prosecutor after the wife, Mary, had related her story of alleged neglect.

"There is none," the husband replied.

"Oh, yes, there is, I'll bet $5 on it," "You're on!" snapped Hamill as he covered the bet. He said he earned only $20 a week, but Mrs. Hamill was certain that he received more.

"I am going to have you watched," said Mr. George, "and if I catch you with an affinity it will go mighty hard with you."

He had just come in from the wood, where she had gathered unto herself a fine new costume of autumn leaves.

"How do you like my new dress, Adie?" she said, striking an attitude before him. "It's a peach," said Adam admiringly. "No, dear, it's a maple," returned Eve. It was about this time that it began to be rumored about that women have no sense of humor.—Lippincott's.

ENORMOUS WASTE OF COAL

One Reason Why the Use of Oil as Fuel Would Be of High Economic Importance.

The United States is by all means the greatest coal producing country in the world. In 1880 the production of coal in the country amounted to 6,266,223 tons. Thirty years later it had risen to almost 64,000,000 tons. In another twenty years this industry had grown to over 240,000,000 tons. Ten years more passed and the production of coal in the United States by the census of 1910 was over 400,000,000 tons. For the year just past it is estimated at about 500,000,000 tons. But in the production of this coal the industrial experts inform us there is wasted 250,000,000 tons. In other words, the United States is using its coal supply at the rate of 250,000,000 tons a year, and this consumption is increasing, as shown above, at an enormous rate.

By the western sea and throughout the great southwest the production of coal is not of great direct interest. In this portion of the country petroleum largely takes the place of coal, and in the production of petroleum California leads all other states in America and indeed all the world. This is a new industry compared with coal. The statistics show that in 1895 the United States produced little more than 60,000,000 barrels of crude petroleum, forty-two gallons to the barrel. In 1910 the production of petroleum in the United States surpassed 182,000,000 barrels. At the present time in California the consumption of oil runs to about 225,000 barrels a day.

There is no such waste in the use of oil as that indicated above in coal. Indeed, the waste in the oil industry from beginning to end is a matter of comparative insignificance.

New Dinner. A shelf full of preserves is the joy of the good housekeeper, and, therefore, most interesting at this season is a patent canner and sterilizer for preserving fruits. These are in the case, to make that fruit, instead of being cooked from the bottom up, which reduces it to a pulp, is steamed from the top down. This keeps both the color and flavor of the fruit, and preserving may be accomplished without sugar.

Stood the Trip Well and Only Needs Rest to Get Well.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Col. Roosevelt and party arrived at the Pennsylvania Station from Chicago at 8:08 this morning.

The colonel was eating his breakfast when the train pulled into the station. He had risen early and was fully dressed and made a hearty meal of eggs, bacon, tea and bread and butter.

In accordance with plans previously arranged, there was no demonstration in the station. In fact, all persons were barred from the train shed except members of the family. The only ones who joined the party were Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Robinson, the latter a sister of Col. Roosevelt, and George E. Roosevelt.

The colonel's special car and the car of the physicians and newspaper men were quickly detached and started for Oyster Bay.

Wound is Oozing Somewhat. Dr. Lambert and Terrell said that structures as may be necessary to establish railroad connections between any existing railroad and the property of the Commonwealth.

No Definite Plan Yet Decided On.

A plan set out by the Port Director a few days ago, showing in graphic detail the colonel's wound was oozing somewhat but that he was in excellent condition.

They issued the following bulletin: "Col. Roosevelt is very cheerful after a good night's sleep. He is feeling very well and has stood the journey well."

"Alexander Lambert," "Scurry Terrell."

Col. Roosevelt's secretaries were busy on the train until late at night looking up an old speech of the colonel's on the trusts. This speech has been the basis of recent criticism by William J. Bryan, and after a secretary had unearthed it and Col. Roosevelt had gone over it, he said he intended to reply to Mr. Bryan's criticism, either in a statement or in a speech.

Cottolene makes delicious biscuit

Cottolene "creams up" so beautifully that it makes delicious biscuits—light, flaky, free from grease and soggy. They almost melt in your mouth.

Cottolene is the perfect shortening—a vegetable product without the possible taint of animal fat. It is far better and more wholesome than lard. It will give equally as good shortening results as butter, and Cottolene is usually one-third butter's price.

Here's another economy point: Cottolene, being richer, uses one-third less than either butter or lard.

THE N. E. FAIRBANK COMPANY

speech at the Progressive State convention caused the nomination of Oscar S. Straus for Governor, turned up at the station just before the colonel departed for Oyster Bay, and was admitted to the car, where he had a short talk with the colonel.

One of the proposed schemes, shows a railroad track line running across East Boston, Charles River and Chelsea, to the Boston & Maine Railroad, and it is probably in reference to this proposed track that this morning's vote was framed.

This proposed track would connect the Commonwealth's property with the Boston & Maine, and at the same time secure access to the Commonwealth's property off Jeffries Point.

At the office of the Port Directors it was said that the plan had not definitely been decided upon, and that the appropriation of $3,000,000 was made with a definite plan of action in view, but "simply so that the first shovelful of dirt could be dug." Now that the money is available the engineers will be set at work, and as this work progresses a definite plan of action will be formed.

CADILLAC COVERS SEATTLE ON HIGH GEAR.

New Car Takes All the Stiffest Grades Without Shifting

Seeing Seattle on high gear in the new Cadillac is a new pastime introduced by M. S. Brigham of the Brigham Motor Car Company of that city. Seattle is pretty nearly the final test for automobiles that care to wrestle with grades. In comparison with the western metropolises the seven hills of Rome are as nothing. The town is one of the few in the continent that could make an ancient cliff dwellers seem at home. As a matter of fact, it is generally considered good enough if a car gets over these formidable Seattle elevations on low gear. At that, has left many a car ready to take the count.

But Mr. Brigham decided to give his 1913 Cadillac a real test, so with four passengers in the car he made a tour of the city for one hour covering approximately 14 miles, negotiating the worst hills the town affords, and never once shifted out of high gear during the test.

This experimental trip really began at the east end of the Madison cut line. The Cadillac made the grade to Thirty Fifth avenue at 20 miles an hour. Although the hill is somewhat steep, the performance of the car did not yet excite special comment, but when it scaled the steep grade from Twenty Seventh avenue to Twenty Fifth avenue without shifting a second speed the occupants gasped. It is a climb that will tax the power of many a car in second speed, but the Cadillac went over the summit at a sixteen mile an hour clip.

So Mr. Brigham continued his test picking out the various steep grades the city offers, and always meeting with success. His experiment included the Taylor avenue grade, the scene of the automobile climbing contest of 1909 and the very stiff grade at Queen Anne Drive-way.

SENDING OUT NOTICES.

N. H. Firemen's Association Wants Affirmative Vote on Constitutional Amendment.

George L. Osgood of Concord, secretary of the New Hampshire State Firemen's association, with the permission of Herbert M. Tucker, the president of the association, is sending out notices to all of the policemen, firemen and constables in the state with a view of assisting in obtaining a two-thirds affirmative vote of the people of the state for the proposed amendment No. 9 of the state constitution, which will be voted on at the general election on Nov. 5.

The circular of the attorney reads as follows:

"This change does not impose any more tax upon the people. The New Hampshire constitution already permits pensions to firemen, policemen and constables, by vote of the city or town government, for term of one year and this change makes it so that a pension can be granted to these men who give their time and endanger their lives for the protection of your families, homes and property, and it will not have to be voted every year."

"As it is necessary to have a two-thirds of all the voters cast in order to amend the constitution, it is necessary to appeal to every voter in the state to vote for amendment No. 9."

Every fireman, policeman and constable in city or town, no matter how great or small, should take it upon himself to explain to the voters the great need to vote for this amendment."

Income or Profit

A successful manufacturer visited one of our offices recently. He was accumulating a substantial surplus and wished to invest it for safety and income.

He told us that a friend he had consulted advised him to buy stocks for an advance in price. The safety of his money or the income that it would earn for him did not enter into the conversation. The talk was of the money he would make.

We advised him to buy some 5% Public Service Bonds. We told him that they were a well secured, well seasoned investment, that would pay him a little over 5%. The matter of possible profit was not mentioned. We talked about values and earnings.

He noticed the difference in the point of view and realized that he was an investor and not a speculator. He took our advice and gave us an order for the bonds.

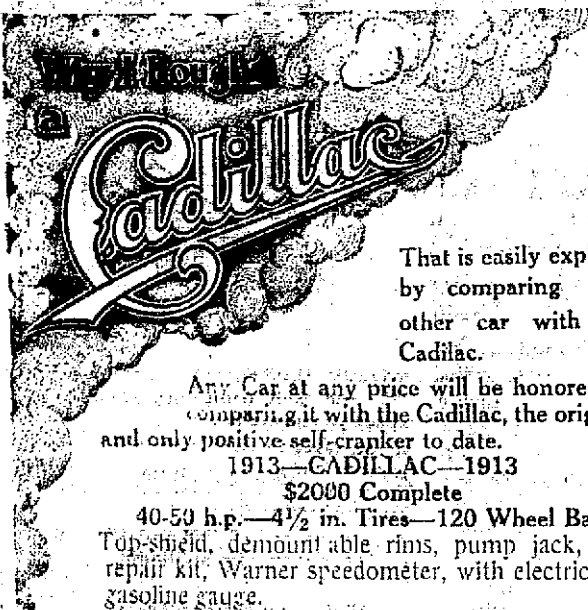

If this was sound reasoning for a prosperous manufacturer, is it not doubly so for those who are dependent on the income from their savings?

Straight talk to men who smoke jimmy pipes

The last two years has seen a revolution in pipe-smoking. Prince Albert came on deck with a brand new deal. Here was tobacco with wonderful flavor and fragrance, without a touch of rankness. Here was tobacco that burned long but burned free and steady, that held its fire close and never sogged but burned down to dust-fine ashes. Here was tobacco you could smoke all day and it wouldn't bite your tongue.

Prince Albert brought the first notable improvement in pipe tobacco since the days of Walter Raleigh. It has done more in two years to make the pipe popular than all other smoking tobaccos in a generation.

Now, men, we want you to know why Prince Albert is different, why it's in a class of its own. The reason is the Prince Albert process. This is what makes P. A. what it is.

This process was discovered by a well-known German scientist who dearly loved a pipe and experimented with smoking tobaccos as a side line. He knew he had hit upon a big thing in this process. So did we when this company acquired it. Experts were put on the job of perfecting it. The work took three years and cost a bunch of money. But we knew it would make a wonderful smoking tobacco and we had the faith to back it.

The United States Patent on this process was granted July 30, 1907.

Now, men, this is the showdown. If you haven't tried Prince Albert, try it now. Put it to the jimmy pipe test. Let the tobacco smoke for itself. Then you'll understand what this patent Prince Albert process means to you. You'll know why it has revolutionized pipe-smoking and started two men to smoking a pipe where one smoked before.

PRINCE ALBERT

"the national joy smoke"

You'll enjoy it rolled up into a cigarette as well as in a jimmy pipe. We tell you, men, here is the real cigarette—so different in freshness, fragrance and flavor that it runs the dust-brands and the chaff-brands right off the smoke map!

You roll up a cigarette of P. A. tobacco and know what's doing. Why, it sets a pace for your satisfaction that no other tobacco ever can replace. Buy one of the handy packages and take a new lease on cigarette joy.

All on-the-job dealers sell Prince Albert everywhere. Ten cents in the famous tidy red tin, five cents in the tippy red cloth bag; also in handsome half-pound or pound tin humidors and a pound humidor of crystal glass.

ONE TOUCH OF NATURE

WHEN THE "MINOR POETESS" CAME INTO HER OWN.

Though at First It Seemed Somewhat Surprising That Writer Really Was Only an Ordinary Woman Like the Rest.

The door latch rattled and Ellnor Grahame, writer by profession, sometimes described as a "minor poetess," but just now a vision of flaming wrath, burst into the room where her sister was peacefully sewing. "Dora, does it stick out all over me?" she demanded.

"What?" asked Dora, puzzled.

"The fact that I've published a slim volume of sonnets, and that two or three times a year my name appears in the magazines. I was out just now in the garden, weeding the lettuce bed, and that silly Elsie Farley came and leaned over the fence and asked if I didn't love communing with the flowers dressed in Mother Nature's own hue," and she looked down at her grimy-green dress.

"What did you say?" inquired Dora, placidly.

"I asked her for that recipe her mother promised me, and she said, reproachfully, 'O, Miss Grahame, I can't talk pickles with you!' and stalked off. In the city I walked unmolested; only three people ever asked me for my autograph, and here—"

"Here they can't help being a little proud of you because years ago you were a tiny girl in the district school," answered Dora. "I think it's dear of them."

"Well, then, why don't they treat me like a human being? Why must I always walk toward the sunset and commune with Chaos? Mrs. Blkins has invited me to the 'Ladies' Society.' I'm to speak a few well-chosen words concerning the 'Influence of Poetry on the Higher Life.' I think I'll advise her to read Edward Lear and cultivate humor. She said, 'Of course you won't have any sewing to bring, you're so literary.' I'm going to dress frivolously and take my most intricate embroidery."

That afternoon Miss Grahame sat in an inconspicuous corner, stitching as idly as usual and talking briskly to a demure little woman at her left. Both were enjoying themselves, and the air was charged with domesticity. Into this paradise walked Mrs. Blkins.

"Are you ready to inspire us, Miss Grahame?" she asked, pointing to a seat of honor at the end of the room. Next, looking at Ellnor's "frivolous" gown, "What wonderful embroidery!" she exclaimed.

"I did it myself," answered Miss Grahame, a little shortly. "May I just catch these last threads, please, before I begin?"

The demure little woman was staring at her. "Are you the Miss Grahame?" she asked. "I thought you must be your sister. You're why you're just like the rest of us."

Ellnor Grahame rose. "I am," she said, "and you're a dear, and the only one who has understood." She took the woman's hands warmly in hers then added, "You won't forget to send me that gingerbread recipe, will you?"—Youth's Companion.

Ichthyol a Kind of Asphalt.

In a report on asphalt by the United States geological survey the following interesting remarks about ichthyol are found:

"A peculiar form of asphaltic material found in Austria finds application, after appropriate chemical treatment, as a medicament under the name ichthyol (and used for erysipelas, eczema, etc.). It is not prepared in the United States. The raw material from which it is derived is a fossiliferous deposit which is found near Seefeld, in the Austrian Tyrol. The material mined at this place is carefully selected as to grade and is subjected to dry distillation. The distillate thus obtained is then sulphonated and subsequently neutralized with ammonia. The finished product resulting from this process is the commercial article known as ichthyol. The exact chemical composition of ichthyol has not been determined."

French Wedding Customs.

There are many customs associated with the French wedding which American brides might copy. One concerns the duties of the maids of honor. An American who attended a fashionable wedding in the Madeleine, Paris, recently was impressed with the following little ceremony.

The maids passed through the assembly of guests making a silent appeal for alms for the poor. At a wedding where no money has been spared and untold extravagance exhibited no one could begrudge the offering of silver expected to be dropped into the dainty "aumoniere," or receptacle of filmy lace, ribbon and flowers, which when not in use, was hung on the arms in lieu of a bouquet.

Bad Books and Bad Children.

"It is time that parents realize the immense importance of the reading habit upon the minds of their children. It is during childhood that lasting impressions are made. Childhood is 'the period of plasticity, the period of adjustment.' 'Go with mean people, and you think like mean,' said Emerson. Read impure books, and books which give false views of life, and character is blackened. Many a boy has taken his first steps toward a criminal career from a bad book; many a girl has begun the downward way to ruin through the influence of corrupt literature."—Suburban Life Magazine.

PECULIAR BELIEF IN JAPAN

Seems Strange to Our Western Ideas, Though There Is Much That Is Pathetic About It.

Among the Buddhists in Japan it is believed that the souls of children go after death to Sul-no-In-wari (the stony river-bed), and there they remain until they reach maturity under the care of Jizobosatsu, who is represented as a priest with a long cane in one hand and a ball in the other. He is said to stand in the center of the kawara, where he preaches to the children as they pile up stones, one for the salvation of their father, one for the mother, the third for brothers, the fourth for sisters and the fifth for their own salvation.

When night comes on and the wind blows hard a gigantic evil spirit appears and with a huge iron rod knocks down the heaps of stones which the children have made, and they are so frightened that they run to Jizo and hide themselves in the big sleeves of his kimono, which have a miraculous way of increasing in size according to the number of children who seek refuge. Then the evil spirit disappears and the children begin again the work of heaping up stones.

Passing through cemeteries in Japan one sees tombs that have the image of Jizo carved upon them, as the parents take that way of gaining the spectral favor of Jizo for their children, and one will see little piles of stones built up by the parents and brothers and sisters of the children with the hope of helping in the tedious work of the little ones in the kawara.—Christian Advocate.

Chicken Race War.

"A sectional issue has arisen in our town," said the commuter. "Before it is settled I am afraid the civil war will be fought all over again. Any how, our southern friends are sure to indulge in some fire-eating language."

"A resident of our village, who undertook to raise chickens, received a crate of fowls from a South Carolina farm. When the neighbors learned where the chickens came from they raised a row."

"If you must get chickens," they said, "get northern chickens. They don't crow nearly so much as southern chickens. There is something in the climate down there that makes a chicken crow four times as often as a chicken brought up in any other part of the country."

"That peculiarity of southern chickens was news to the amateur poultryman. He noticed, however, that his chickens really did crow more persistently and more vigorously than any other chickens he ever had known, and when an experienced poultryman assured him that they always would because southern chickens always do he sold them and bought New Jersey chickens instead. Now he is in hot water with the southern families in our town, and heaven only knows how the squabble will terminate."—New York Times.

Rented Wedding Cake.

There was something wrong with the cake, the baker said; it looked all right and it smelled all right, but his artistic sense told him it would not taste all right.

"Then fix it up with an extra coat of icing, and we will keep it for a renter," said the proprietor.

"Who in this world would rent a cake?" someone asked.

"Wedding parties," said he. "They want a big cake in the center of the table for show, but a cake of that size good enough for a wedding would cost more than they can afford to pay, so they order fine cake put up in individual boxes for the guests, and use the bride's cake just as an ornament. They don't buy it, they rent it. Some times a cake is rented a dozen different times. After each wedding it is freshened up with a new coat of icing and looks as good as new for the next occasion. A good renter fetches about $3 a wedding."

Being Convinced.

It is said that Andrew Carnegie's use of simple spelling has "frittered" some people on the other side of the water, who have read his published speeches on certain subjects. "The effect on the reader," says one man, "is irritating, rather than convincing. An American, commenting on this comment, says that if a person cannot be convinced by reason and sense, irritation is the next best thing. Now whether or not one believes that irritation ever is or was or could be a wise method of procedure in causing food or had, it is a notable fact that irritation often seems immediately to precede conviction. For example, take woman suffrage. I know of a dozen cases in which violent dislike of the idea turned almost without warning into approval of it. Will the irritation settle spelling rouses in the breast of many of us faded into acceptance of it?

SEES GROWTH OF LUNACY

Dr. Forbes Winslow Declares There Will Be More Insane Than Sane In 300 Years.

London.—There will be more lunatics in the world than sane people three hundred years hence, was the prophecy Dr. Forbes Winslow made. This prophecy is based upon the present rate of the growth of lunacy as revealed by recent returns.

Doctor Winslow expressed strong disagreement with the statement made at the Eugenics congress by Doctor Mott to the effect that increase in lunacy was more apparent than real, and told a press representative that in making such a statement Doctor Mott apparently referred to London only. Dr. Forbes Winslow said that from his knowledge of the progress of lunacy in all parts of the world he had come to the conclusion that "we are rapidly approaching a mad world." He added: "In every part of the world civilization is advancing, and so insanity is also bound to advance. There were 36,762 registered lunatics in 1859, but 135,000 at the present day. That showed the alarming increase."

If Doctor Mott's theory is accepted, we shall wake up when it is too late to prevent a further increase. What happened to the pauper class in London, as an alleged proof against the real increase of lunacy, was very much beside the question, taken as a whole. Fifty years ago there was one lunatic in 575 of the population, but now one in 236. At that rate of progress, he said, in three hundred years' time there would be more lunatics in the world than sane people.

FRAUD OF OBESE MILKMAN

Water From Cow Puzzles Paris Inspectors Until Secret Is Discovered.

Paris.—For many weeks complaints have been received that the milk sold by a Paris dairyman was too thin; samples were taken by the police, and on each occasion the milk was found to contain a large proportion of water.

Despite this, the man, vehemently protested his innocence and invited the police to visit his dairy at any time to see the cows milked. Two inspectors did so, and after witnessing the milking carried away the milk, which on examination was found to contain a large proportion of water. The visits were repeated, but each time the milk which came straight from the cow was found to be too thin.

The police were much puzzled until one day Inspector Debout noticed that the milkman, who was very fat, milked with only one hand. Another curious point was that he also seemed to grow thinner as the milk pail grew fuller. Inspector Debout at once ordered the milkman to undo his waistcoat, and a system of piping was revealed. One bladder contained air and the other water. By pressing the air bladder the milkman caused the water to trickle out of the water bladder through a pipe into the milk pail, the operation being concealed by his artificial obesity.

GIRL HAS $1,100 WEDDING

Kansas City Laborer Spends Years Savings as Daughter Is Married.

Kansas City, Mo.—Eleven hundred dollars, the savings of a dozen years, was spent by Giuseppe Anello, a laborer in the employ of the Kansas City street department, when his daughter, Mary, 16, became the bride of Vito Campanello, 18. Fifty-nine motor cars hired by Anello whirled the wedding guests on a long tour over the city's boulevards and the festivities ended with an elaborate banquet and ball at a hall in "Little Italy." Anello said he had been saving for the event since Mary was a little girl in Cicely.

AZTEC BALL PLAYERS

HAD GAME REQUIRING HIGH DEGREE OF SKILL

Stars of the First Magnitude in the Big League Today Would Have Found Nothing Easy About Those Contests.

No, the first game of ball ever played on the American continent did not take place the first time the home team welcomed the visiting "glitche" way back in the last century. That "game" seems to have been played several centuries ago.

It was an Aztec game and it was played somewhere out on the mesa of Mexico, long before the Spaniards arrived in their search for gold.

The sort of ball that the Aztecs played was very popular with the public, just as the big league draws at present today. They had no "regular league balls" at $1.25 each, but used one of rubber or elastic resin, and in another sort of contest used those made of gold.

The ancient Aztec game was called totolache and was played in a court known as a tlacochco, not so large as the present day diamond. The players were clothed only in a maxlatl or girdle around the loins.

There were pitchers, but not catchers, and the fielders were few. When pitched the ball was struck by an upward movement of the thigh or elbow, according to how it was aimed, whether high or low. After being struck the sphere, in order to count, and to pass through a hole in one of several stone disks hanging just in front of the wall of the court. The rest of hunting that ball with the thigh and sending it through one of those holes required a great deal of skill, as might be imagined. Agility was one of the prime requisites of an Aztec ball player. Any player touching the ball with the hand lost a point.

The emoluments of the game were quite as interesting from a pecuniary standpoint as they are today. Things of great value were usually given to the winners. And not only the prize. The victors were often presented with jewelry, fine cotton stuffs, feather work or plumes of great value.

The game with the gold balls was a favorite of Montezuma. It is said that when Cortez staged his little show of Mexican and took Montezuma prisoner the royal captive spent a great deal of his time in duress playing the game with gold balls. He often challenged the Spanish general to a contest.

These yellow "pitts" were thrown at targets of the same precious metal. History shows that Montezuma had the makings of a pitcher who might have been in fast company had he delayed the date of his birth a few centuries. He could lean them against the home plate with unerring regularity. The Spaniards never could learn to play ball any way, and Cortez was not one two three with the first great American pitcher, so he lost frequently.

The Aztec emperor usually insisted upon having high stakes placed on the game and won precious stones, ingots of gold and other more or less desirable property, which he promptly distributed to his attendants with the wonted generosity of his emperorship. Cortez probably played a clever game on "Old Monte" for he was the captor, you know. He probably relieved those same attendants of their evidences of Montezuma's liberality as fast as the old fellow loaded them up and thus kept up a clever triple monetary play, Montezuma to servants to Cortez.—New York Sun.

Alligator Hunting Free for All.

Since the publication in this paper a few weeks ago of a paragraph about the profits to be made in alligator farming, many letters have been received asking for further information. It will interest these correspondents to know that alligator hunting is now free for all on the Magdalena river in Colombia and that there is one firm in Newark, N. J., which has a virtual monopoly of the alligator skin trade of the world, buying as it does from 80 to 90 per cent. of the production.

In the Magdalena river are three species of alligators, only one of which, the caiman porro, is of any value.

Change of Diet.

Senator Penrose was congratulated at Atlantic City on his aspect of sun-burnt and vigorous health.

"It is the change," he said, "the change from the baking heat of Washington. There's nothing like a change, you know. There was wisdom in the doctor's remark:

"You should eat for breakfast every morning," said the doctor, "an orange and two poached eggs."

"Then," said the doctor quickly, "don't!"

Somewhat Like Eve.

Rose Pastor Phelps Stokes, at a dinner in New York, was describing a particularly intelligent little "country wacker."

ITEMS OF INTEREST TO NAVY YARD EMPLOYEES

Anxious About the Ships
Beckman Winthrop, acting secretary of the navy on Monday sent despatches to all stations in Santo Domingo and Haiti seeking information of the United States transport Prairie, which with 750 marines was last heard from on October 2 off the coast of Santo Domingo. The Prairie had been sent to that country in view of the disturbed conditions there.

An Argument About the Fish
A well known navy yard employ who resides in New Castle treated his friends in the yard central power plant with a bushel of fish on Tuesday. The fish were prepared for the noon meal and while the firemen and others were devouring the sea product, a discussion arose as to what species of fish they were. One man who has done deep water fishing on the other side of the Atlantic sticks to his belief that they were Galway collock, and he quotes his authority from Prof. Kilgallon the famous oceanologist with whom he has a personal acquaintance.

Leaving Eliot
Oscar Cullum, a pipefitter in the power plant is moving from Eliot to his city.

Clerks for Storekeepers
The naval appropriation provides that clerks may be allowed to general storekeepers ashore and afloat. Last year but ten clerks were provided for and they were assigned to duty on the largest battleships and flagships. Paymaster general Cowie urged the House naval committee to allow clerks to aid the officers of the corps, who were compelled in many cases to work night and day to keep their work up to date. The clerks are nominated by the pay officer and appointed by the secretary of the navy. During their service they have the relative rank of boatswains with regard to pay and allowances.

Engineer Maxson to Retire
The death of civil engineer Joseph S. Shultz, U. S. N. adds another vacancy in the corps of civil engineers, making three in all. The retirement of civil engineer F. O. Maxson next year will make another vacancy, and the navy department is particularly desirous of interesting engineers in this field. The corps should have its authorized number of officers, as the present personnel has more work than can be properly attended to. Ensigns selected for this detail will spend two years at the Troy Polytechnic school. The work during the first year will determine whether or not they are considered fitted for appointment in the civil engineer corps.

Prairie Safe
The naval transport Prairie which had not been heard from since Oct. 2, and for the safety of which fear was entertained, arrived safely at San Domingo, City last night. She had not reported to Washington before because of cut cables at Santo Domingo. Brigadier General Frank McIntyre, U. S. A., W. T. S. Doyle chief of the Latin American division of the state department, and 750 marines are on board.

Naval Orders.
Commander U. T. Holmes, from Louisiana to bureau of steam engineering, navy department.
Lieut. (junior grade) R. L. Mont-

JUDGE EMERY APPEARS FOR CITIZENS' LINE

Judge Samuel W. Emery of this city appeared on Monday before the Massachusetts Railroad commission in behalf of the Citizens Electric Lines of Newburyport for a location of tracks and other matters pertaining to the several lines which he represents.
Judge Samuel W. Emery stated that he plan had been approved by the mayor and aldermen of the city and the people in general seemed to favor the extension. He also said that he considered it a great improvement as it present it was impossible for people coming in on the Boston & Maine trains to get a car at that station. There was no opposition and the hearing closed.

The board also gave a hearing to the Massachusetts Northeastern Street Railway Company. This company wishes to purchase the property and franchises of the Seabrook and Hampton street Railway Company the Haverhill Plakstow and Newton, and the Citizens Electric Railway Company. Judge Samuel W. Emery of Portsmouth appeared for the company, and D. A. Belden president of the company was also present.

Judge Emery stated that the Seabrook and Hampton Line was just a continuance of the Amesbury and Hampton Line, already under the direction of the Massachusetts Northeastern Street Railway Company, and that this consolidation would only insure the traffic to the beaches. He stated that the owners of the lines were about the same and that the Seabrook and Hampton Line was operated in conjunction with the other line.

He also said that the Haverhill Plakstow and Newton Line was only a continuance of the Haverhill and Plakstow Line which has already been merged into the Massachusetts Northeastern Company.
In regard to the Citizens Electric Railway Company of Newburyport he stated that the consolidation would simplify to a great extent the matter of transfers and therefore be a great move.
After these explanations the hearing closed and the commission will take the matter under consideration.

NAVAL INQUIRY IS ORDERED FOR DOG

Washington October 22—A thorough investigation of the report that Guy A. Bisset, a naval constructor at the Portsmouth N. H. navy yard, ordered a bluejacket of the gunboat Bagley to whip his dog, has been ordered by acting secretary of the navy Winthrop. A report from the acting commander of the navy yard completely explained the matter and exonerated Mr. Bisset. Mr. Winthrop said he was thoroughly satisfied that first reports had been exaggerated.—Boston American.
